

He's Not Just Flirting: 7 Signs He Wants to Make You His Girlfriend

He's Not Just Flirting: 7 Signs He Wants to Make You His Girlfriend

It can be hard to distinguish between real love and flirting in dating and relationships. Often, people flirt and play around with each other without wanting to take things further. But there are vital signs that he wants to make you his girlfriend that can help you tell if someone is interested in getting to know you better. Seeing these signs is important because it lets you decide about your relationship based on facts.

In this article, we'll discuss the difference between flirting and genuine interest and look at 7 signs he wants to make you his girlfriend. Knowing these signs, you can move forward in your love life with confidence and understanding. Let's look at the world of deep relationships and find out what makes a relationship grow.

I. 7 SIGNS HE WANTS TO MAKE YOU HIS GIRLFRIEND

When a man wants to make you his girlfriend, there are clear signs that he wants to do so. He'll prioritize spending time with you and go out of his way to plan special dates. He'll introduce you to his close friends and family, showing how much he values your presence in his life.

He'll pay close attention to you and remember even the smallest things about you. He will talk about his feelings and goals for the future, hoping to make an emotional connection. By saying he's exclusive, he'll clarify that he's not seeing anyone else.

You'll be part of his long-term plans and discuss future events and adventures with him. He'll say "we" instead of "I," which shows he wants a shared future. If you see these things, he likely wants to make you his one and only.

Sign 1: Consistent Communication

A. Frequent Texts and Calls

If someone texts or calls you often, it's one of the 7 signs he wants to make you his girlfriend. It shows they are thinking about you and want to keep in touch. If he always makes the first move to talk to you, that's a good sign that he likes you.

B. Effort to Initiate Conversations

Another sign that he talks to you regularly is if he tries to start conversations. It means he's not just writing or calling you to say hi; he's trying to get to know you better. He will ask about your life, hobbies, hopes, and dreams. He will also tell you things about himself.

C. Meaningful and Engaging Communication

The communication that is always there should be important and exciting. It means you should

