

Important Tips for Controlling Termite and Rodent in Houston, Texas - Cycreek Pest Control

Some common signs of termite and rodent infestations:

Floor damage, such as blistering or snagging

Wall damage, indicated by cracks in internal walls

Mud tubes on exterior walls

Discarded wings from termite swarmers

Hollow or damaged wood

Piles of termite droppings, which are generally the color of the infested wood

As for rodent infestations, common signs in Houston, Texas may include:

Droppings, which are often found near food sources and nesting areas

Gnaw marks on wood, plastic, or wiring

Nests made of shredded materials

Grease marks along walls and baseboards

Unusual pet behavior, such as barking or scratching at walls

If you suspect a termite or rodent infestation, it's advisable to consult with a pest control professional of Cycreek Pest Control Company to do an inspection and appropriate treatment. Rodent Control Houston

To prevent termite infestations in your Houston home, you can take the following measures:

Eliminate Moisture: Termites are attracted to moisture, so it's important to fix leaks, repair water damage, and reduce humidity in basements, crawl spaces, and attics.

Remove Wood-to-Ground Contact: Keep firewood, mulch, and other organic materials away from your home's foundation to prevent termites from accessing a food source.

Seal Entry Points: Plug up holes, gaps, cracks, and small openings in your home's walls or foundation to prevent termites from gaining entry.

Remove Rotted or Damp Wood: Eliminate tree stumps, wood piles, and debris from around your property to reduce termite attractants.

Professional Inspection and Treatment: Regular inspections by a pest control expert and professional-quality pesticides can deter pests like termites from settling in.

As for rodent infestations, the following steps can help prevent them in your Houston home:

