

Adventurer Documents His Descent into Antelope Canyon And It's Breathtaking

A man recently heard about a magical place located in the middle of the dry desert that contained some magical beauty. He was from Paris, France and loved adventure and the beauty of Mother Nature. The place he heard about was no easy place to get to, but he had heard that it would be absolutely worth it. It is nearly completely hidden from the surface but what this place contains will take your breath away. He set out to find a place he had heard of called Lower Antelope Canyon with his tripod and camera. Scaling down into the hole was a little bit of a trick, but he was a skilled climber and overcame the tremendous obstacle. He never expected what he was about to see. Take a look at the images taken in the bottom of Lower Antelope Canyon, Arizona:
