

The Mysterious Tree Species That Produces Fruits Resembling Girls: Nareepolaa

The image of a tree species that produces fruits identical to a girl has been circulating on social media for a long time, causing many people to be skeptical. Some people easily believed that this was a real tree species, while many others believed that it was just a hoax, with manipulated and intentional images.

According to information circulating on social media, this tree species is called Nareepol, which in Thai means “woman” or “female,” while “pol” means plant or tree, and Nareepol means “female tree.”

