

Harvest Delight! Fruity bunches of fruit just harvested this seasonaa

As autumn sets in, farmers across the countryside are hard at work bringing in the harvest. For many, this is the most rewarding time of the year, a time when their hard work and dedication throughout the growing season is finally rewarded with the sweet fruit of their labor.

A giant mango exhibit made of different varieties.

Photo by Dr. Desa Hassim

Whether it's a field of golden wheat, a row of plump tomatoes, or a grove of juicy oranges, there's a special satisfaction that comes from seeing the fruits of your labor reach their full potential. For farmers, the harvest season is a time to reflect on the challenges and triumphs of the year gone by, and to revel in the abundance of the land.

