

What Is Facial Coding and How Does

Facial coding is a method used to understand and measure emotions by analyzing facial expressions. It's like reading the language of the face. Researchers use facial coding to study how people feel in different situations, how they react to things, and how emotions are connected to our facial expressions.

Read More