

Exploring the Mystique of the Green-Rainbow Stag Beetle

The Green-Rainbow Stag Beetle is a sight to behold, with its shimmering emerald-green exoskeleton and elongated mandibles. This magnificent beetle, also known as Phalacrognathus muelleri, is native to the rainforests of Australia as well as New Guinea. Its striking appearance and gentle demeanor make it a prized addition to insect collections and vivariums. Enthusiasts admire its iridescent coloration, which can vary from deep green to metallic blue, depending on the angle of light. For those seeking to add this stunning beetle to their collection, reputable breeders like James Beetle Farm offer healthy specimens for enthusiasts to admire and appreciate.

Read More