

Koalas with injured paws need mittens for protection. Let's help them heal! naa

Koalas with injured paws need our help. During wildfires, these gentle creatures often suffer from painful burns that make it difficult for them to move and climb trees.

To protect their injured paws and help them recover, specially made mittens are essential. These soft, protective mittens allow their wounds to heal while preventing further damage. By providing these mittens, we can give koalas a chance to heal and return to the world where they belong. Let's join hands in this effort to help these adorable animals recover and thrive once again!

