

10 Best Work at Home Jobs for Pregnant Women

Let's face it, working outside of the home while pregnant can present a range of challenging issues, from additional physical discomfort to unneeded stress and strain. There are many ways that you can ditch the office job and work from home while waiting for your new bundle to arrive.

During my last two pregnancies, I worked full-time while balancing the demands of pregnancy and little ones at home.

The stress of going to work was overwhelming, and I would often find myself fantasizing about how relieving it would feel to work from home. Thankfully there are a plethora of work at home jobs now available that allow pregnant women to work (did I mention in sweatpants?) from the comfort of their own homes!

Whether you're transitioning out of your 9-to-5 in preparation for your maternity leave or you're simply looking to increase your income before adding a new bundle to your home, you've come to the right place for finding the best work at home jobs for pregnant women.

Here are the best at-home jobs for pregnant women. Before diving into our list of jobs down below, check out a few tools to help make the transition easier, so you're fully prepared for your new journey.

