

Confusing: NO ONE KNOWS how the baby ended up from the neck of a stork—and the

In a scene, a baby is gently wrapped in a soft cloth, from the neck of a large stork gliding gracefully through the vast blue sky. Although the situation seems unrealistic, the image exudes a sense of warmth and connection.

The stork, with its calm eyes and elegant form, embodies a sense of responsibility to protect the life on this extraordinary journey. The baby, peacefully asleep, appears to place complete trust in the stork—a yet deeply emotional bond.

The stork's outstretched wings, like a giant embrace, shelter and carry this new life, creating a beautiful symbol of love and connection between them. In this harmony, the sky seems to witness a sacred journey, where trust and serenity intertwine beautifully.
