

Joeboy Warns Fans Against Allowing Social Media to Shape Their Values

Nigerian singer Joeboy has cautioned his fans against letting social media dictate their values and standards. In a recent post on his X handle, Joeboy emphasized the importance of maintaining a realistic perspective and not comparing one's life to the seemingly perfect images and posts on social media.

“People lie a lot,” Joeboy wrote, urging his fans to be cautious of the unrealistic expectations often presented on social media.

The singer's warning serves as a reminder to his fans to focus on their own lives and not measure their self-worth by the curated content they see online.
