

Phyno: Marriage Often Hinders Celebrities' Music Careers

Nigerian rapper Phyno has shared his thoughts on the challenges of balancing music careers with marriage.

In a recent episode of the “In My Opinion” podcast, Phyno described music as a “jealous and tasking” career, requiring full attention.

“Music basically is a jealous career... That’s why people drop out of school to face music. The ones that had to juggle the two, you have to give them kudos because it’s not easy,” Phyno said.

He emphasized that most celebrities’ careers decline after marriage, citing the demands of music and the importance of life experiences in songwriting.
