

REPORT: Beyoncé's Jaw-Dropping Pay Won't Believe the Number

Beyoncé was reportedly paid 20 MILLION DOLLARS to perform at the Super Bowl.

Beyonce (Photo by Alex Slitz/Getty Images)

Beyonce performed a memorable performance during her halftime show doubleheader on Wednesday.

While the games were hardly as exciting as fans anticipated, the questionable gesture.

The world-famous artist took center stage at the NRG Stadium, which featured cameos from the likes of Post Malone and Shakira.

The outing also marked the first live rendition of some of her music, enough to have been a Super Bowl halftime delivery.

Beyonce Earned An Unbelievable Sum

According to reports, Beyonce made a cool $20 million for her performance on Netflix back in 2019.

She collected $20 million for the first one, a concert documentary, and $20 mil for the halftime show on Wednesday.

"If we believe this to be true, then that's $20 million specifically for the halftime show."

Trapital is a company that deals in inside information where Beyonce's performance was sold.

As mentioned above, however, Beyonce was criticized for her performance.

Fans thought it was hypocritical of the NFL to allow her to perform at the Super Bowl.

Read More

